Excess of Loss Insurance

The need to ensure that a business of any size has sufficient levels of liability cover has never been greater. Even a relatively small incident can result in a large claim for loss that could bring a business's financial stability into question.

Businesses across a wide range of industries are increasingly looking to purchase top-up liability coverage to ensure they're fully protected. We can consider most areas of insurance, ranging from standard wholesale and service trades, through to large construction and civil engineering risks or specialised manufacturers.
